DETAILED ACTION

- 1 This Office action is in response to the Applicant's response dated December 19, 2005, which is in response to the Office action dated September 13, 2005.
2. Examiner disagrees with Applicant's remarks that Westphal et al reference is silent as to any physical structure corresponding to the electrical wiring diagram shown in figures 1-6. The structural reality in each one of these figure is that the inner end wire will not come out for connection over the wire of each loop unless it is in other plane than the singular plane of loop coils. This is not any supposition, allegation, driven or inherency conclusion, but a pictorial evidence in each one of the figure. Further, the figure provided by the applicant showing dents in the loop coils for the inner end of the coil being coming out in the same plane as the loop coils are, is not relevant in this case, as the coil dents create different structure than the applicant has requested for patenting in this application.
3. The pending claims in the application are 1-3.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Westphal et al (US 6,479,997).

As regards to claim 1, Westphal et al teach a gradient coil for magnetic resonance tomography apparatus, including spiral coil having an inner conductor feed section and an outer conductor feed section (figure 2), and disposed on a carrier plate (column 2, lines 8-16). Further, Westphal et al teach the inner conductor feed section being disposed at a second level, separated from the first level, and the spiral coil with its inner and outer feed conductor sections are forming a continuous and unitary electrical conductor; and the inner conductor feed section is being disposed outside the carrier plate (figure 2-3), as any two object cannot occupy the same space.

5. As regards to claims 2 and 3, Westphal et al further teach the first coil level being a plane or a cylindrical surface 9 column 2, lines 8-16).
6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
